

foodwatershelter presents...

Permaculture Design Certificate (PDC) Courses

Tanzania - 2014

SAVE THE DATES!

Following the success of our 2012 and 2013 courses, fws is pleased to offer three PDCs in Tanzania in 2014.

Kiswahili PDC | May 5th — 16th | in Arusha
with PRI Kenya

English PDC | May 26th — June 6th | in Arusha
with Steve Whitman from the USA

Kiswahili PDC | Sept 8th—19th | in Morogoro
with PRI Kenya and Sustainable Agriculture TZ

Permaculture is a framework for working towards greater sustainability and self-reliance. In these courses, you'll gain direct permaculture design experience through Kesho Leo's farms and other local projects, while learning within a diverse group; from farmers to NGO workers, teachers to lodge managers.

You'll learn hands-on with livestock, organic vegetable gardens and aquaculture ponds, food forests and poultry systems, compost toilets and rainwater harvesting systems; all while supporting the promotion of self-reliance within Africa.

Opportunities exist for course sponsorship to assist the attendance of African students, who will make up at least half the course numbers.

Visit www.foodwatershelter.org.au/pdc.aspx and follow the links to join our mailing list and be informed early of course details, or contact pdc@foodwatershelter.org.au.

Our past PDCs have instructed 90 graduates with a wide range of backgrounds - here's what some had to say:

"Steve was an excellent trainer. It was a great experience, an amazing way to build connections with people from all walks of life. I'm so happy I did it!"

"The course was incredibly valuable—everyone should take a permaculture course! No matter what you do for work or where you live, permaculture can help make your work and life more abundant, efficient, productive and beautiful, and fws is a great place to learn and explore"